MEDICAL RESEARCH

Centris is an online system for managing clinical trials. Its innovation lies in the optimization of processes for document organization and in the agility of searching for related information, achieving optimization of time, resources and access to content.
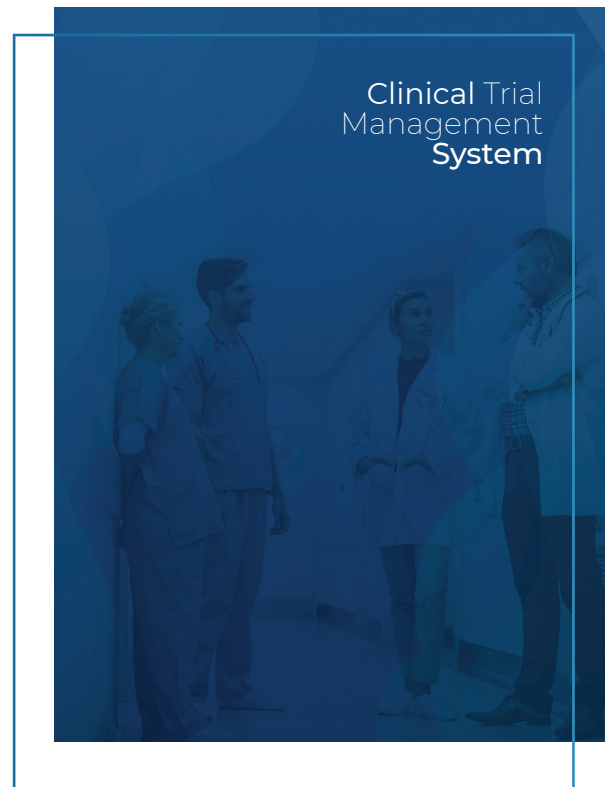

SITUATION:

The company approached our team with the need to develop this new platform due to our strict control of sensitive and confidential information, in addition to our experience in the medical sector.

SOLUTION:

Our company appointed a team of engineers for the development of the platform; We began by defining the communication channels and the working modality which consisted of developing the central platform using scalable technology for the next extensions of the system.

Although within our agile development methodology the team of programmers meets daily, a direct communication channel with the client was defined, as well as scheduling a meeting to show progress every two weeks.
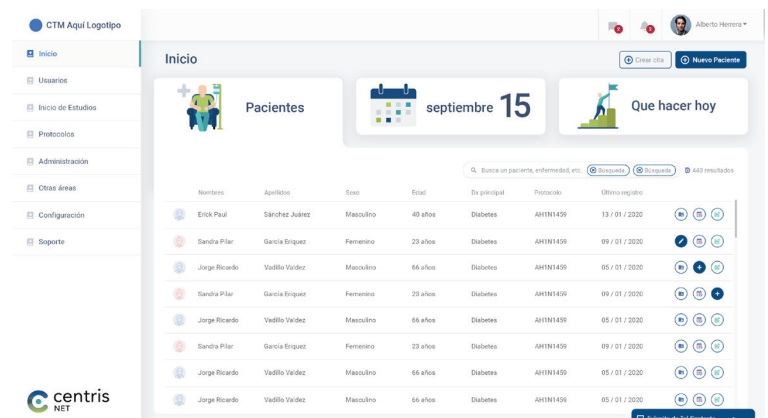

The project complies with high security protocols through an encryption mechanism, with dedicated servers for each instance of the system.

Currently our company continues with the development of the system, as well as technical support for customers of the platform.

MANIFEST OF AGILE DEVELOPMENT

We are uncovering better ways of developing software by doing it and helping others do it.
Through this work we have come to value:

Individuals and interactions over processes and tools.
Working software over comprehensive documentation.
Customer collaboration over contract negotiation.
Responding to change over following a plan.

That is, while there is value in the items on the right, we value the items on the left more.
